Cookies and your choices

Bar Match Ltd operates www.barmatch.co.uk. Cookies, pixels, tags and similar technologies store or access information on your device. Our Privacy Policy explains related personal-information use.

We use strictly necessary technologies for features you request, security and privacy choices. Optional analytics, advertising and consent-dependent external content stay off until you enable them. We choose opt-in for optional analytics.

Select Accept optional cookies, Reject optional cookies or Settings. Change or withdraw choices through Cookie settings at any time. Browsing or making an enquiry is not consent. Rejecting optional cookies does not prevent enquiries; some external features may remain unavailable.

What may be used

- Necessary technologies: assessed for the requested function; a plugin or calendar is not automatically exempt.
- Analytics: Google Analytics, where enabled, measures site activity and may use visitor/device identifiers.
- Advertising: Google Ads and Meta, where enabled, support campaign measurement, audiences and remarketing.
- External content: videos, social feeds or calendars may share information with their providers; consent-dependent tracking is blocked until enabled.

Google Tag Manager manages tags; each tag's purpose determines its requirements.

Cookie settings list the actual technology names, providers, purposes and durations. Session technologies expire with the session; persistent ones last for their stated period unless removed sooner. We update the register when tools change.

Managing existing cookies

Withdrawal controls future consent-dependent activity. Browser settings can also delete or block existing cookies, but do not replace our website controls. Blocking all cookies may affect essential features; you can contact us directly.
